

Online Security and Privacy

...a Highlands Video Series

It is no surprise that we have been finding ourselves online more than ever before in these last few months. With covid-19 changing the ways we live outside, we have had to change the ways we do things inside — everything is online now, from our socializing to our shopping.

Join our online minister, Andria Irwin, in a series of conversations with local computer engineer and Highlands monitor, Ken Brough, about how we can best protect ourselves and our machines in this time.

Each video is about 25 minutes long and covers topics such as why we should care about online security, the basic things we should be putting in place to protect ourselves, common and current technological scams, how to create the perfect password (and why!), what privacy means these days, and basic configurations to keep our information safe.

The first four videos of this 6-part series are up already on our YouTube channel at www.youtube.com/HighlandsUnitedChurch
